Introduction

This is the second edition of the Insulae Draconis Book of Ceremonies. The first edition, prepared by Lord Jean-Loup de Fribois and Lord Robin Bowman of Dalriada, was written for Insulae Draconis as a Crown Principality, and following Insulae Draconis becoming a Principality, a revision was needed. This has been orchestrated by Lord Asbiorn inn eyverski, Rockall Herald, with a great deal of assistance in creation of the new ceremonies provided by Master Robert of Canterbury. Further assistance in various stages of the project was provided by other members of Drachenwald's College of Heralds within Insulae Draconis.

The ceremonies, as written here are intended as a base for Court Heralds to work from. They can be used exactly as written, but particularly for the minor ceremonies, alterations as needed are to be encouraged to prevent courts becoming stale and repetitive. There are currently alternative versions provided for the Principality Officers' Oath and the Coronet's Oath of Fealty to the Crown. Which of these you use is up to you, and the Coronet you are working with.

If any members of the College of Heralds within the Principality have possible alternative versions of any of these ceremonies (from particular cultures, based upon particular period examples, etc) they should send them to Rockall for consideration for the next version of this Book.

I. The Coronets

1. Invocation of Principality Coronet Lists

Herald:

Their Highnesses command that all entrants to the tournament come forward and present themselves and their consorts before the Coronets of Insulae Draconis.

In order of precedence, each fighter proceeds one by one in front of the Coronet, their chosen herald (if present), announces them to both the Coronet and the populace, they kneel and the entrant introduces their consort to the Prince & Princess.)

Herald:

My Lords and Ladies, you know well that true gentles enter combat not for their own personal glory, but rather to advance the honour of their consorts; and to prove by their courtesy and valour upon the field, their being worthy of said honour.

Keep in your heart as you fight upon the field today your consort's honour as well as your own; for your consorts personify all honour, glory, strength, beauty and truth. They embody the one single great thing that is worthy of reward and that is love.

Therefore, today as you fight to become the Prince or Princess of Insulae Draconis remember that you do not fight to gain power for yourself, nor for just your own glory and honour. Instead, you fight for the honour and glory of the one who has granted you a favour as a token of love and esteem and whom you would advance by your valour, skill and courtesy.

Thus should victory be granted unto you this day, you and your consort will be declared as the next Prince and Princess of the fair lands of Insulae Draconis.

Prince:

You have heard the reasons for Our Lists. Each of you here today have a lady or lord whose favour you would advance, whom you would make Princess or Prince as your consort, should you prove yourself victorious upon the field. Is it still your desire to participate in these lists?

Entrants:

It is Your Highness

Princess:

Do each of you now affirm that you and your consort, fulfil all the requirements for fighting this day as set forth by Our Laws?

Entrants:

We do Your Highness

Prince:

And do you all here know the Rules of the Lists and swear to abide by them?

Entrants:

We do Your Highness

Princess:

Then bear your favours bravely into the field and prove the worth and virtue of your consorts, may it be in victory or in honourable defeat. You have Our Leave to withdraw and prepare for the tournament.

The herald calls the recipient into court, they kneel before the Coronet and at this time, if they so wish the Crown may render to the populace some commentary upon the deeds of the recipient which gained him/her this award.

After this, or if no Royal comment to the public is wished, the Herald will read the scroll wording to the populace whilst the Crown chats privately to the recipient.

If no scroll is available, either of the following wordings may be used.

9. Company of Merit for Excellence and Example

Herald:

Their Highnesses bid all members of the Company of Merit for Excellence and Example to rise.

The members of the Company should rise, moving if necessary to avoid blocking others' view.

Herald:

As the Prince and Princess serve the people of Insulae Draconis throughout their tenure, they set an example of glory for all the people of the land. However they are not alone in being mighty examples of the excellence to which we all aspire.

There are those among us, who, by their very presence, enhance our Current Middle Ages to the betterment of all, by their demeanour, manners and enthusiasm for the activities we participate in.

Thus was formed the Company of Merit for Excellence and Example to hold up such individuals for all to see and strive to match and excel. The responsibilities of this company can be grave as they are expected to advise the Prince and Princess on many matters for the gain and growth of our Principality.

And so do the Their Highnesses call before them _____.

Coronet may make personal statements, the Herald reads scroll, or scroll text (Section 13, below)

Herald:

For _____, newest member of the Company of Merit for Excellence and Example, Vivat! Vivat! Vivat!

10. Order of Ffraid

Ffraid is pronounced approximately as "fried," as in fried egg.

Herald:

Their Highnesses bid all members of the Order of Ffraid to rise.

The members of the Order should rise, moving if necessary to avoid blocking others' view.

Herald:

As the Prince and Princess serve the people of Insulae Draconis throughout their tenure, they set an example of service for all the people of these lands. All who enjoy the beauty and prosperity that is Insulae Draconis are expected to render service when required, to the best of their abilities.

There are those few, however, whose service consistently exceeds the expectations of their offices or ranks and who are, therefore, especially worthy of reward.

The Order of Ffraid was created to honour the memories of those whose devotion, determination and selflessness is presented as exceptional in many a tale. By this example, it is given to those persons who have served Insulae Draconis above and beyond the normal contributions of any other gentle.

And so do Their Highnesses call before them _____.

Coronet may make personal statements, the Herald reads scroll, or scroll text (Section 13, below)

Herald:

For _____, newest member of the Order of Ffraid, Vivat! Vivat! Vivat!

11. Company of Merit for Artisans and Scholars

Herald:

Their Highnesses bid all members of the Company of Merit for Artisans and Scholars to rise.

The members of the Company should rise, moving if necessary to avoid blocking others' view.

Herald:

Our Principality has always prided itself on the abundance of skilled gentles that inhabit these lands. However, when an individual has been seen to excel in such skills and scholarly expertise, when they have not only displayed their own knowledge but also shared it with others, it becomes the solemn yet joyful duty of the Coronet to reward them and thereby encourage others to further develop their own skills, whatever they may be.

History is made of such gentles whose artistic talent were well known all over the world. Yet history would not be what it is without those who first set to write it.

Therefore was created the Company of Merit for Artisans and Scholars, to be granted as a sign of the Prince and Princess's recognition of the exceptional skills which these individuals bring to increase the beauty and wisdom of Insulae Draconis.

And so do Their Highnesses call before them _____.

Coronet may make personal statements, the Herald reads scroll, or scroll text (Section 13, below)

Herald:

For _____, newest member of the Company of Merit for Artisans and Scholars, Vivat! Vivat! Vivat!

12. Order of the Fox

Herald:

Their Highnesses bid all members of the Order of the Fox to rise.

The members of the Order should rise, moving if necessary to avoid blocking others' view.

Herald:

In ancient times there were kings, revered by many, who shaped these lands we know today and whose names filled many a tale and legend. They nobly fought many foes and were a great inspiration to their men at arms and people.

Such individuals, sure of character and prowess, an inspiration to all who espy them, and whose noble demeanour brings glory and honour to Insulae Draconis are few in number. However, be it in armoured combat, fencing or archery, these few are especially deserving of just reward.

Thus does the Coronet recognise such individuals by admitting them to the Order of the Fox, that all may know these gentles and be instructed by their example.

And so do Their Highnesses call before them _____.

Herald:

For _____, newest member of the Order of the Fox, Vivat! Vivat! Vivat!
